Rumored That Joe Tinker Will Manage Cincinnati Reds.

Fandom here is ago today over the latest rumor that Joe Tinker is to be the next manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

C. Webb Murphy, owner of the Cubs, left for Cincinnati last night. He admitted that he would drop in on August Herrmann, the Red magnate.

It has been feared that Tinker, the sole remaining member of the old infield machine, would drop out ever since his "spat" with Murphy, last season.

"Dopesters" have it today that Hoblitzel and Esmond will be traded for Tinker and Hoffman, or Tinker and Good.

So Roosevelt was bamboozled by J. P. Morgan on Tennessee coal and iron deal! Taft and Wickersham confess it. But the question remains: Could anybody fool Teddy, and would Morgan be mean enough to do it?
